SCHOONOVER RESIGNS AS CHIEF CLERK

Local Baltimore & Ohio Official in Position Over Score of Years.

TO BE REASSIGNED, REPORT

H. D. Whip, Relief Agent for the Connellsville Division, Named as Successor; Harry L. Ash Made Car Distributor in Place of J. F. McGrath.

W. O. Schoonover, for 22 years employed in the Connellsville offices of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, the greater part of which time he was chief clerk, has resigned from that position and is at present taking an extended vacation. He has been succeeded by H. D. Whip, relief agent of the Connellsville division of the railroad company. It is reported he will be assigned to other duties.

Mr. Schoonover is a pioneer in railroading in Connellsville. He came here from Pittsburg when the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company established division offices in Connellsville. He had been assistant time keeper in the Pittsburg offices for about one year and the remainder of his 22 years of service with the company has been in this city.

The retiring chief clerk has been a big factor in the advancement of the railroad here. His first position in Connellsville was timekeeper. Later he became chief clerk and then assistant train master. He then returned to the chief clerkship and had held that position since. It is generally understood that Mr. Schoonover was so exceptionally qualified for the position that he was never taken from that office regardless of advancement of co-workers.

Recently Mr. Schoonover's health began to break under the strain. He left about eight days ago on a vacation. He stated this afternoon that he was not yet determined what he would do but it was a certainty that he would not return to the office of chief clerk.

Another change in the local offices is the promotion of Harry L. Ash to be car distributor. He succeeds J. F. McGrath, resigned. Mr. McGrath was also an old employe of the company. He became car distributor when J. E. Wallace resigned. Mr. Ash was formerly chief clerk to the chief dispatcher.

WEST PENN PLANT AT SPRINGDALE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Several Departments Destroyed by Blaze Believed to Have Been of Incendiary Origin.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 20—Fire caused damage estimated at $145,000 yesterday when it destroyed these buildings of the West Penn power plant at Springdale: Machine shop and contents, ice plant and fixtures, storerooms, construction engineer's office and records and a frame garage. For a long time the flames threatened to spread to the main structures of the plant.

The fire, which broke out simultaneously in the different buildings and the source of which is being investigated, made such costly headway because the Springdale firemen encountered a shortage of water.

The fire departments of New Kensington, Arnold and Parnassus, with the aid of chemicals, kept the blaze from spreading from its points of origin.

ODDS ON HARDING

PITTSBURG, Oct. 20—It was reported in local financial circles yesterday that a Fourth avenue broker had placed, for clients, $70,000 at odds of seven to one on Harding's election, and that he had more to wager at the same odds.

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—Apparently men who frequent the financial section of New York are pretty thoroughly convinced that the coming national election is not a betting proposition. There are plenty of Republicans willing to stake their money on the election of Senator Harding, but the supporters of Governor Cox have too little confidence to make it interesting. The latter are now demanding odds of seven or eight to one.

TEN KILLED, MANY INJURED IN WRECKS ON THREE ROADS

Confusion of Signalmen Reported Responsible For Seven Deaths.

FLYER SWIPES ANOTHER

By Associated Press.

ERIE, Oct. 20—Seven persons are known to have been killed and at least 17 injured when the Chicago & Boston limited on the New York Central railroad sideswiped a Cleveland train, westbound, at the west end of the Union station here today. Four bodies are those of women.

The Chicago & Boston express ran through an open switch not far from the station and sideswiped the train from Buffalo on its way west. The third day coach from the engine was overturned and all the casualties are believed to have occurred there. Rescue forces were quickly at work and in a short time six bodies had been taken out.

Parts of another body, rescue workers said, were in plain sight but they had so far been unable to extricate it from the wreckage.

The dead in some instances were badly mangled.

Fifteen of the injured were removed to hospitals, some of them physicians stated, so badly hurt that their recovery was problematical. So far as could be learned none of the passengers on the eastbound train were hurt.

Early reports to railroad men were that a party of signal repairmen working near the station had become confused when they saw the two passenger trains coming from opposite directions and one of them was throwing a switch when the train from Buffalo rushed by. The next instant the crash came. One of the dead was believed to be a signal man.

STABILIZATION OF COAL PRICES THEME AT PITTSBURG MEET

PITTSBURG, Oct. 20.—Pittsburg district bituminous coal operators are anxious to stabilize trade conditions, as the business seems to be in a mixed state, especially as to prices. Monday afternoon a meeting of the Pittsburg Coal Producers' association was held and the subject discussed in a general way. There is wide variance in prices, with large margins between contract lake coal and what is known as the "free" product. There is a scarcity of labor, and the production is represented as not supplying the demand, which in a great measure makes for unequal prices.

T. W. Guthrie, president of the Hillman Coal company and also president of the Pittsburg Coal Producers' association, said last night that some action to remedy conditions complained of is badly needed. To attempt to find a way out, it has been decided to call a mass meeting of the Pittsburg district coal operators, to be held in the Oliver auditorium, Oliver building, next Friday afternoon. It is expected that the attendance will be large.

Reduction in bituminous coal prices will be considered by mine owners in Cleveland, October 26, at a meeting called yesterday by the National Coal association at the suggestion of Attorney General Palmer. Mr. Palmer's suggestion carried the assurance, the association's announcement said, that any action toward reduction of high prices and elimination of profiteering would not be construed under the Lever act as an infringement of law.

MAKE KEYSTONE STATE MAJORITY LEAD THE NATION

REAL INTEREST SHOWN

With a great national victory for the Republican party in sight in the coming election, Governor William C. Sproul today urged united effort on the part of the Republican county leaders in Pennsylvania to make this state's majority for Harding and Coolidge the greatest of any state in the Union.

"I have been going about considerably," said Governor Sproul, "and I have heard from others who have been going about a great deal more that things are in good shape in this country for a great Republican victory in the November election.

"If we will just be alert and will do our full duty from now on until the polls close on November 2, and I know we are going to, the result is going to be magnificent.

"I have always been confident that the women will do their full duty when the time comes. A great many of them in those states where the woman voted four years ago were deceived in the tenderness of their hearts by the battle cry, 'He kept us out of war.' But this year they won't be fooled by the attempt to dress that same thing up in a new and more dangerous shape.

"I was never better satisfied in my life with anything that happened and never surer of what was going to happen than I was after the election in Maine, when we saw how the women of that staunch old state conducted themselves on election day."

With only a fortnight remaining until the election, the Republican county organizations are putting forth their utmost efforts to make the majority of Harding and Coolidge reach the goal hoped for by State Chairman William E. Crow, a majority of 750,000.

If the campaign has lagged, it is not lagging now, and the real interest being taken throughout the state, according to reports being received at the Republican state headquarters from the county chairmen, indicates that the usual Republican landslide in this state will be much greater than ever before.

Some effective work is being done by the women's organization everywhere in the state, and Mrs. Barclay H. Warburton, chairman of the Republican Women's committee, is well satisfied that more than 75 per cent of the state's women will cast their first votes for the Republican ticket.

State Chairman Crow again warned the county chairmen today of being over-confident, and urged upon them the necessity of getting out the full vote on election day.

SOUTH CAROLINANS, EMULATING KLU KLUX KLAN, GIVE ROUGH TREATMENT TO NEW YORKER

By Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20—A man giving the name of Peter McMahon of Yonkers, N. Y., with his wrist scarred by a rope and his back bearing the marks of a whip, left a northbound Pennsylvania train here early today and sought the police for medical attention. He said he was seized and whipped Monday night a few miles out of Trenton, S. C., after he had attempted to assist Miss Florence Powell of Aiken, S. C., in a settlement which involved a division of her father's estate. His underclothing was stiff with blood and besides last marks his body and neck bore the marks of ropes with which he said his tormentors had attempted to hang him.

Police are investigating the story.

McMahon, who is 55 years old, said he believed his assailants were adopting methods of the Klu Klux Klan. He said he was seized when he left the train at Trenton, S. C., and was driven to the country in an automobile. At the point where his mistreatment took place he said eight men wearing white hoods gathered around him and beat him. "They threw a rope around my neck and then tried to put the other end over a tree but it would not reach," McMahon said at a hospital today. "After a severe beating the men told me they had decided to let me go. They blindfolded me, putting a hood over my head exactly like the ones they wore. They then led me to an automobile and we drove to a house where I was fed. They called a physician to examine my wounds. They then drove me to Denmark, S. C. They gave me my ticket to New York, after making me promise I would not return. All the way from Denmark to Washington some one came into the car occasionally and after looking at me retired to another car. This man acted as guard to see that I did not leave the train."

McMahon said he was too weak to leave the train at Washington. He told the police he was a friend and adviser of Miss Powell. He said her father lived at Aiken and is president of a bank. Recently, according to McMahon, the father made a division of his property among his children. Florence's share was $50,000.

"I did not think that sufficient and she and I went to Aiken last week to see if we could not get a better share for her," McMahon said. He described his movements in South Carolina and the feeling engendered by the interest he took in the case which resulted in the alleged mistreatment.

McMahon also said that when one of the men who beat him asked if he would sign a paper saying Miss Powell was incompetent to handle her own or her father's affairs he refused and was beaten with clubs. A rope was tied around his neck he said and he was dragged for a long time.

Tampering With Safety Lamp By Miner Believed to Have Been Responsible; Over 100 Persons Escape From Workings; Mules Taken Out.

By Associated Press.

PEKIN, Tuesday, Oct. 19.—An explosion and fire in the Tong-Chan coal mine in Chi-li province killed upwards of 400 Chinese laborers, last Thursday, but news of the accident reached here only today. There were 119 survivors.

An official report by the mining company places the dead at 422. The explosion occurred in next to the lowest level, smoke causing most of the deaths.

Railway shops and a large cement works near the mines lent their employes for rescue work. Grief-stricken crowds surrounded the mines, carrying off the victims as they were brought to the surface. It is reported that 180 mules were taken out Sunday. The official report says the explosion set fire to the timbers of the mine.

Rescue work began immediately under the direction of an engineer belonging to the foreign staff of the mine. It had been known that there was fire damp in the mine and extra precautions had been taken to safeguard the miners. It is believed the explosion was caused by laborers tampering with safety lamps.

ERSKINE RAMSAY RISES TO AN ENVIABLE PLACE.

ject of the foregoing description, is now on a trip North. He was the guest of A. M. Lynn, president of the West Penn system, at Pittsburg on Saturday and spent the week-end at the home of his brother, William Ramsay, of Derry, where a family reunion was held Sunday.

Mr. Ramsay took to Alabama with him a knowledge of mining methods acquired by years of service at Carnegie and Frick plants, for he started his career of usefulness before he had shed short trousers. His father, Robert Ramsay, recognized as one of America's greatest mining engineers, believed in putting his boys to work early so by the time he was 17 Erskine had worked at these jobs: Blacksmith helper, fireman, hoisting and pump engineer, weighman on the tipple, payroll clerk, shipping clerk and manager of a cooperative store. In 1883 he was graduated at the head of his class from St. Vincent's college at Beatty. Though only 19, he was then made superintendent of the H. C. Frick company's Monastery mines, succeeding his father who had been promoted to be general superintendent of all the company's mining operations after the consolidation of the Frick and Carnegie interests. At Monastery Mr. Ramsay increased the production of coke to 4.17 tons per oven, while never before had any Frick ovens yielded as high as four tons. His report of production was at first discredited but later found to be correct. In 1885, although he himself was not in favor of assuming the responsibility, Mr. Ramsay was made superintendent of the Morewood Coke company, then one of the largest propositions in the coke region. Later plants of the Southwest Coal company at Tarr and Alverton were added to his supervision, and afterward Red Top works, near Tarr, came under his charge.

In October, 1896, Mr. Ramsay was promoted to be assistant engineer for the H. C. Frick Coke company and was in charge of the construction of the Standard works at Mount Pleasant, then the largest coke works in the world.

When he became affiliated with the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad company he introduced a more efficient system of mining and the plants were brought to a high standard during his 15 years' connection with the company. Resisting the allure of attractive offers of positions in Canada, West Virginia and his old stamping ground, the Connellsville coke region, Mr. Ramsay decided to remain in the Alabama field. As a result he is now first vice president and chief engineer of the Pratt Consolidated Coal company, which operates about 30 mines and produces annually about 2,000,000 tons of coal. He and G. B. McCormack, president of the company, also own other mines and coke ovens at New Castle, Ala. They also own the Bank of Ensley, at Birmingham, one of the most successful banks and the possessor of one of the most magnificent banking houses in the South. He is also a member of the executive committee of the board of directors of the First National bank and vice president of the Goodall-Brown Dry Goods company of Birmingham.

Mr. Ramsay holds patents on about 30 inventions used in the coal mining industry. At Lemont works a Ramsay rotary car dump with a capacity of 18 one and one-half ton mine cars has been installed. At the time it was put in it was the largest in the world. The Ramsay rotary dump will also be used at the new mine at Logans Ferry, which will supply the West Penn company's new power house at Springdale.

Over sixty million breakfasts with Maple Karo last year

Does it interest you to know that Maple Karo outsells all different kinds of maple syrups? Delicious flavor — moderate price the reason

Two big reasons stand out for the record breaking sales of Maple Karo.

First — the flavor of Maple Karo is not an "imitation." The makers are the world's largest users of the purest and best flavored maple sugar.

Over a thousand tons are brought annually from Vermont and Canada—where the finest maple trees grow.

This sugar is used to make Maple Karo and to give it its delicious flavor.

The second reason is quite as interesting as the first:

Maple Karo is remarkably moderate in price—selling at a lower price than any other syrup of approaching quality and flavor.

Over five million cans were sold last year.

Get a can of Maple Karo in the GREEN CAN from your grocer today. If you are not pleased with it, the grocer will gladly return your money.

419 Eggs From 20 Hens In 30 Days

Mr. Dougherty Got This Result in October. Plan is Easily Tried.

"I tried Don Sung and the results were far past my expectations. I got 419 eggs in 30 days from 20 hens while moulting. I think this is wonderful, as they hardly laid at all before."—Frank Dougherty, 5040 E. 11th St., Indianapolis.

Mr. Dougherty bought $1 worth of Don Sung in October and wrote this letter in November. Figure his profit on 30 dozen eggs from hens that formerly laid little or nothing.

This may sound too good to be true, but it costs nothing to find out. We'll make you the same offer we made him.

Give your hens Don Sung and watch results for one month. If you don't find that it pays for itself and pays you a good profit besides, simply tell us and your money will be cheerfully refunded.

Don Sung (Chinese for egg-laying) is a scientific tonic and conditioner. It is easily given in the feed. Improves the hen's health and makes her stronger and more active. It tones up the egg-laying organs, and gets the eggs, no matter how cold or wet the weather.

Don Sung can be obtained promptly from your druggist or poultry remedy dealer, or send $1.00 (includes war tax) for a package by mail prepaid. Burrell-Dugger Co., 214 Columbia Bldg., Indianapolis, Ind.

DO YOU KNOW WHAT IS THE MATTER?

LOOK TO YOUR BLOOD

So many people spend week after week feeling down and out. They never stop to think that something really is the matter. They satisfy themselves by saying, "Oh, I'm not sick. I'll be all right tomorrow."

And tomorrow comes again and again. Still they feel depressed and languid, scarcely able to get around.

If you don't feel like yourself, you are not yourself. If you are weak and pale, your blood needs strengthening. You should know about Pepto-Mangan, that famous blood tonic. Physicians recommend it and prescribe it because it contains just the ingredients needed to make red blood. It renews your energy, puts you where you ought to be. Begin with it today. Get the tablets if they will be more convenient to take than the liquid. Both have the same medicinal properties. But be sure you get the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Ask for "Gude's" and be sure that the full name, "Gude's Pepto-Mangan," is on the package.—Adv.

Too Weak to Do Anything

The ordinary every-day life of most women is a ceaseless treadmill of work. Reading, Pa.—"I had organic inflammation, pains in the side and back which were so sharp that they pulled me to my knees, and I could not walk. I had an operation and still I failed, and in the eight years I suffered I had four doctors and none helped me. My mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was then in bed, and after the first bottle I could be out of bed, then I took Vegetable Compound Tablets and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and also used the Sanative Wash. I still take the medicine and am able now to do my own housework. My friends say, 'My! but you look well—what do you do? Who is your doctor?' And there is only one answer, 'Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines which I gladly recommend.'"—Mrs. Wm. Stein, 560 Douglas Street, Reading, Pa.

Gainesville, Tex.—"For three years I suffered untold agony each month with pains in my side. I found only temporary relief in doctor's medicine or anything else I took until my husband and I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I mentioned it to a neighbor and she told me she had taken it with good results, and advised me to try it. I was then in bed part of the time, and my doctor said I would have to be operated on, but we decided to try the Vegetable Compound, and I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I am a dressmaker and am now able to go about my work, and do my housework besides. You are welcome to use this letter as a testimonial as I am always glad to speak a word for your medicine."—Mrs. W. FISHER PLAN FOR STABILIZATION OF CURRENCY REJECTED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—Prof. Irving Fisher's plan to stabilize the dollar by diminishing or increasing the gold behind the dollar as prices fall or rise was adversely reported upon today by the currency commission of the American Bankers' association. After a year's study, the commission found that the plan contained "grave dangers" and it recommended against memorializing Congress in favor of changes in the monetary system suggested by the Yale economist.

"It is our conclusion," the commission reported, "that Dr. Fisher's plan, though interestingly and ably worked out, is wholly impractical and would involve grave dangers to the stability of our gold in any period of crisis since the plan calls for lightening the gold behind the dollar when prices fall and foreigners, foreseeing this, would draw down their balance and sell 'dollars' short before the government could make the change."

The commission believed the plan would make "difficult if not impossible," the maintenance of gold redemption in periods of rapidly rising prices. If adopted at this time, the commission asserted, it would work definite hardship and perpetuate the suffering of all those receiving fixed incomes who have suffered from the rapidly rising prices.

"Had the plan been in operation at the outbreak of the war in 1914," the report continued, "it would have broken down as Dr. Fisher now admits. It could not therefore have prevented the rise in prices of war-time and consequently most of the claims which Dr. Fisher had made must now be abandoned.

"The great economic evils of the war have grown out of wasteful consumption and destruction, demoralization and interruptions of transportation and the withdrawal of many millions of men from production, the whole combining to create a scarcity of goods. No change in the monetary system could have prevented this evil. The plan therefore could not have been a remedy for social discontent and distress."

FORESTALL COLDS WEATHER ILLS

With the fall comes changeable weather, and changeable weather means an increase in sickness. Sickness means increased expenses, new bills, and an added outlay of money, and during these times, that is what everybody wants to avoid and not only do they want to avoid expenses, but most certainly no one wants to be sick or suffer if they can avoid it. Those who are in a run-down condition, whose stomachs are out of order, nerve force low, who can't sleep well, or in short, those whose vitality is not up to par are always the first to fall before the ravages of disease. Everyone should take a good tonic in the fall, and in looking over the list of tonics offered, Nerv-Worth stands out in a class by itself because of the wonderful service it has given through many years. It contains ingredients which are highly beneficial, it is quick in its action, and it's pleasant taste coupled with all those features, makes Nerv-Worth the ideal fall tonic.

Here is an example of what Nerv-Worth did to ward off sickness in the case of Joseph Le Prell, 17th street, Erie, Pa.—"I was suffering from severe pains and was feverish. My stomach and digestion were in bad condition, and I was forced to my bed. At times I froze up, and then again I would be burning up, and I was afraid I would have to fight the 'flu.' My wife purchased me a bottle of Nerv-Worth, having heard it was such a great help, and in a day or so I was out of bed, and ready to go to work. It did its work effectively in my case, and I advise all to use it to ward off sickness and 'flu.'"

That is Mr. Le Prell's testimony and you will find that Nerv-Worth will be just as big a help to you. Be sure to get the genuine in the round bottle, price $1.25. Sold by the Connellsville Drug Co. and all leading druggists everywhere.—Adv.

RHEUMATISM

A Remarkable Home Treatment Given by One Who Had It.

In the Spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflamatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with rheumatism, some of them 70 to 80 years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of your rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

SOMERSET, Oct. 20.—After setting fire to the large barn of Mrs. Wilson Reed of South Somerset last Saturday evening, causing a loss in crops estimated at $5,000, Ralph Mitts, 19 years old, and a former employe of the place, is alleged to have entered the house and ransacked it. From there he went to the barn of Attorney J. C. Lowry, where he stole a saddle and blanket. Mitts was arrested yesterday by a member of the state police and taken before Justice of the Peace Charles J. Harrison, Jr., for a preliminary hearing. He was committed to the county jail for trial at the next term of court.

Upon a cross-examination at the hearing, the youth claimed that while in the Reed barn Saturday evening, he lit a cigaret and threw the burning match away, unaware that it had ignited the place. Further testimony disclosed, however, that after Mitts set fire to the barn and the Reed family had gone out to extinguish the blaze, he sneaked into the home, taking money and other valuables. He then made his way to Attorney Lowry's place, stealing the saddle and blanket there.

Until recently Mitts was employed in the Reed home. After leaving there he went to work for Hiram Hay near Rockwood.

WEDNESDAY EVG. OCT. 20, 1920.

AN ACT OF KINDNESS TO BRUCE.

Even if Governor Cox is elected President—which no sane Democrat will concede is humanly possible—the election of Bruce Sterling from the 23rd, or a Democratic member of Congress from any other district in Pennsylvania, can avail nothing in the direction of carrying out Governor Cox's declared intention of having the United States enter the League of Nations.

Sentiment among members of the Senate and House who will be reelected, and new members, Democratic and Republican alike, is so uniformly against acceptance of the Wilsonian covenant that it will be impossible to secure approval of it by the constitutional majority. Governor Cox, Bruce Sterling, Ex-Crown Prince McAdoo and every other equally well posted Democrat knows this to be true, all the noise making and oratory to the contrary notwithstanding.

The country at large well knows that the League of Nations was made an issue by the Democrats merely to throw a smoke screen over the notorious record of profligacy, waste and incompetence of the Democratic Administration. When the noise of the campaign has subsided and the Democrats awaken on the morning of November 3 to find their leaders, their party and their so-called issues buried under an avalanche of Republican votes, all thought or care for or interest in the League covenant will have vanished. The "referendum" will be so solemn that the Democrats in and out of Congress will gladly refrain from effort to revive the issue.

Such being the case there will be no more need of a Democrat in Congress than there is of a fifth wheel to a wagon and, so far as his constituents are concerned, he will be no more useful than such a vehicular appendage. Out of sympathy with and in fruitless opposition to the constructive Republican plans for a restitution of popular, representative government in place of the one-man autocracy by which we have been dominated for more than seven years, about the only function of a Democrat in Congress will be to fill a place on the payroll.

Having thus thought the matter out, and for other good and sufficient reasons, the voters of the 23rd Congressional District have decided that it will be neither good business nor good politics to supplant Samuel A. Kendall by Bruce F. Sterling as their Representative in Congress. Under a Republican administration Bruce would not have the slightest show in the world to engage in his specialty of finding places for "deserving Democrats," that species of the genus homo being scheduled to become as extinct as the dodo after the work of cleaning house begins on the morning of March 5 next.

Moreover, the record of Congressman Kendall, who has served his constituency with singular fidelity and without partiality or distinction as to their party affiliations, has proven to the people of the district—Democrats and Republicans alike—that he not only represents the whole district and all its people, but that because of his industry, ability and influence, he has been able to get things done, and has not spent his time in hunting or having jobs made for an army of henchmen.

With the experience of one faithful and fruitful term of service to aid him the people know he will be better positioned, under a Republican President and Congress, to advance the interests of this great industrial district than Bruce Sterling or any other Democrat could possibly be.

Four years ago, when President Wilson was "keeping us out of war," Bruce functioned in the great game of "watching the President," but now that we have been "kept out of peace" for two years, it will be but an act of kindness to Bruce to "keep him out of Washington." He would be thus free to devote his diversified talents to filling his recently assumed role of temperance advocate, and to applying his boundless energy to the task of solving the mystery of the "Missing 43" and to plan "Unheralded Raids" upon unsuspecting but wicked purveyors and disseminators of a form of refreshments, even the legal manufacture and vending of which he now professes to have always held in utter abhorrence and detestation.

H. C. L. A POOR SECOND TO THE COST OF HIGH LIVING.

An analysis of the luxury tax returns reveals very definitely to what extent the cost of high living has contributed to the High Cost of Living.

For instance, during the year ended June 30 last the women and girls of the United States spent more than $750,000,000 for face powders, cosmetics, rouge and other toilet preparations. Furs, worn almost as extensively in summer as in winter, cost $200,000,000. Jewelry purchases totaled $300,000,000.

The men were even more prodigal in their luxury expenditures, having blown away in smoke $500,000,000 for cigarets and $510,000,000 for cigars. For ice cream, sodas and other decoctions the consumption of which they shared with members of the fair sex they spent $250,000,000. Still more generous were they in providing toothsome confectionery for their best girls or the best girls of some other fellows, their bill for this item having been a round $1,000,000,000. Chewing gum cost them $50,000,000; soft drinks, $35,000,000.

When to these expenditures there is added the money spent on "movies" and various forms of amusements, silk shirts, shoes, clothing and other articles of personal adornment the prices of which placed the articles in the luxury class and subject to the tax, the aggregate becomes more than $22,000,000,000, or within $3,500,000,000 of the amount of the public debt of the United States on July 1.

To complete the grand total of luxury expenditures for which figures are not available, there are scores of items not included in the foregoing which will aggregate billions. All of which serves to show that the High Cost of Living has been a rather poor second to the Cost of High Living.

Women Will Make Good

By Hilgrade Hawthorne.

"The greatest job women have ever faced."

That is what Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore, regional director for the Republican women of the Eastern Division, says regarding the work of turning out the woman's vote for the Republican party on November 2.

We have to make each individual woman realize her responsibility, realize that it is she on whom the election hangs. If she stays away from the polls, if she doesn't do all that in her life, to get her men to go, then the election is lost. For it is always and ever the individual who counts.

We have to make the women realize that it is only through a party that they can work, all work they want to for the general good. Paint your politics red, white and blue, certainly. But belong to a party and work for it. Mix your high-minded ideals with practical methods. Work hand-in-hand with men. Learn the rules—and be tolerant.

We have great plans, great ideals we women. But if we are to put them over, we must learn to adjust ourselves to the machinery of politics, to work through that machinery, which, during the life of this country, has proved to be the best method for getting results, so far discovered.

Women are going out to make good on their citizenship job. They are already making good on it. But remember, every woman reader, listener, every woman too busy to go to rallies, to hear the speakers, that it is you who must win. Without you the work is lost and the hope fallen. Go to the polls and do your duty, back up the women who are giving all their time and strength. Make good!

The Key To The Mystery

Harvey's Weekly.

Mrs. Bergdoll's story about how she buried a pot of gold is mighty interesting reading. It revives boyhood memories of Captain Kidd and other eminent "pirats." It is rather regrettable, though, that there was no skull nailed to a tree with cipher directions for dropping a plumb line from the death-head's starboard eye socket. That would have brought the romance quite up to regulation standards.

But it is a very stirring tale just the same, even with these adornments left out. Moreover, it points a moral. It inculcates that doctrine of cautious thrift with which the country just now cannot be too thoroughly saturated. Mrs. Bergdoll was simply a prudent housewife. She put no trust in banks and burglars. She wanted her gold where she could lay her hands on it at a moment's notice. So she very sagaciously deposited it in a pot buried away off in the woods somewhere. Of course, with $30,000,000 Republican slush-money diggers digging around "promiscuous-like," there was more or less danger to even a cast-iron pot safe deposit vault buried in the woods. But Mrs. Bergdoll took her chances on that. Which shows that she knew just what she was about. That pot has not yet been found. The chances are long, very long, that it never will be.

All this, as we said, is mighty interesting reading, and so are those sworn statements of young Mr. Bergdoll's $10,000 bribe offers scattered around—all of them very properly spurned, of course, on the unimpeachably moral ground that they were not big enough, even when put on a cost-plus basis.

And in this connection it might be mentioned as a picturesque incident that young Mr. Bergdoll appears on sworn testimony to have had the quite reasonable privilege of running a bribery clearing house in his place of gentlemanly retirement from the world, his so-called prison guardians delicately withdrawing beyond earshot when he was engaged in confidential corruption conferences with what the insurance agents call "prospects."

All this is extremely engrossing. But for genuine fascination, no detail of it is a marker compared with that which attaches to another branch of the roving slacker's adventures. What is the name of the War Department official who gave Bergdoll permission to leave prison and go off on a buried treasure joy-ride with a suite of genial government custodians? Right there is the real pivotal point of all this ingeniously involved mystery story. The time limit for guessing was up long ago. Mr. Secretary Baker ought to relieve suspense by giving us this key-name to the combination. He knows it if anybody does. If he does not, he ought to, and if he does know, it is high time he told it.

"NOTHING SHORT OF REMARKABLE"

"The three bottles of Tanlac I've already taken have made me feel like a brand new man," said Isaac M. Monk of 410 Penn avenue, Pittsburg, Pa. "For the past several months I was so crippled up with rheumatism in my shoulders and knees that it was difficult for me to get around and do my work. I was so stiff and achy in mornings I felt unfit for anything.

"My appetite was very poor and after eating I would bloat terribly and have a burning sensation like fire in the pit of my stomach. I was also troubled with an abscess on my back that hurt me terribly.

"My head ached terribly and my nerves became so upset that I would roll and toss from side to side of the bed nearly all night, getting very little sleep, and I always felt tired and worn out. My first bottle of Tanlac helped me so much that I kept it up and the results are nothing short of remarkable.

"There's not a sign of rheumatism left in my shoulders and legs now, my back has also stopped hurting me and I can get around like a sixteen-year-old boy. My appetite has come back in full force and I can eat most anything I want.

"I have already picked up wonderfully in strength and am still getting stronger. Tanlac is certainly one grand medicine and anyone suffering as I did will do well to give it a trial." Tanlac is sold in Connellsville by all good druggists.—Adv.

Catarrh Of The Stomach Is Dangerous

"Thousands Have It, and Don't Know It" Says Physician. Frequently Mistaken For Indigestion—How To Recognize and Treat.

"Thousands of people suffer more or less constantly from furred, coated tongue, bad breath, sour burning stomach, frequent vomiting, nauseating stomach, bitter eructations, gas, wind and stomach acidity and call it indigestion when in reality their trouble is due to gastric catarrh of the stomach," writes a New York physician.

Catarrh of the stomach is dangerous because the mucous membrane lining of the stomach is thickened and a coating of phlegm covers the surface so that the digestive fluids cannot mix with the food and digest them. This condition soon breeds deadly disease in the fermented, unassimilated food. The blood is polluted and carries the infection throughout the body. Gastric ulcers are apt to form and frequently an ulcer is the first sign of a deadly cancer.

In catarrh of the stomach a good and safe treatment is to take before meals a teaspoonful of pure Bisurated Magnesia in half a glass of hot water as hot as you can comfortably drink it. The hot water washes the mucous from the stomach walls and draws the blood to the stomach while the bisurated magnesia is an excellent solvent for mucus and increases the efficiency of the hot water treatment. Moreover the Bisurated Magnesia will serve as a powerful but harmless antacid which will neutralize any excess hydrochloric acid that may be in your stomach and sweeten its food contents. Easy, natural digestion without distress of any kind should soon follow. Bisurated Magnesia is not a laxative, is harmless, pleasant and easy to take and can be obtained from any local druggist. Don't confuse Bisurated Magnesia with other forms of Magnesia, milk, citrates, etc., but get it in the pure bisurated form (powder or tablets), especially prepared for this purpose.—Adv.

A SUNDAY "MOVIE" LAW TO BE FOUGHT BY THE CHURCHES

Lord's Day Alliance Charges Plan Has Been Made to Elect Members Favoring Such a Measure.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20.—Every ministerial association in Pennsylvania will be asked to fight the Sunday motion picture local option bill, which will be introduced in the next legislature by the motion picture exhibitors.

The Lord's Day Alliance of Pennsylvania, which is battling to maintain the Sunday law, has outgeneraled the movie men by exposing their plan of campaign. At a recent meeting of the Exhibitors' League, in Atlantic City, a plan was adopted by which the movie men hope to elect a "movie legislature" that will be subservient to their interests.

The plan was a clever one. Men were to be elected to the legislature pledged to vote for a motion picture local option bill, and these candidates were to be featured on the screens in every moving picture theatre. Candidates who refused to pledge themselves were to be barred from the screen.

Obtaining a complete outline of the movie exhibitors' plan, the Lord's Day Alliance has published 10,000 copies, and flooded the state with them. Every clergyman, and many of the leading laymen of churches in cities and towns throughout Pennsylvania have received copies giving details of the "plot" of the movie magnates to capture the next legislature. Accompanying the reprints were letters requesting the church leaders to be energetic in seeing that all candidates for the legislature were pledged to vote against the motion picture local option bill.

CONNELLSVILLE ROOTERS MAY GO TO GREENSBURG ON A SPECIAL STREET CAR

Enough Buyers of Tickets Are Secured Rate Will Be Lowered.

GRIDDERS GETTING READY

Connellsville football fans will probably have a special car to carry them to Greensburg on Saturday when the Coker team plays in the county seat of Westmoreland. It was announced in the high school yesterday that if sufficient persons to cover the expense of chartering a car, desired to go, the special would be secured.

The students are to report to Principal Davis by this evening and tomorrow will not be too late. Persons not in the high school who desire to attend the game should call the high school to inform them of their intention of going. If there are enough it may be that two cars will be secured.

Tickets will be put on sale at $1 for a round trip on the special. No definite announcement concerning it has yet been made but the special would probably leave here at 1 o'clock.

While students are busy preparing for the special car the gridiron warriors have buckled down to a hard schedule of work. Every man on the team realizes that what will probably be the hardest game of the season is ahead of them and none is shirking the program laid out by Coach Rupp.

Last Saturday, the team showed a big improvement and the victory over Latrobe was decisive enough to give the team confidence in itself. There is more cooperation between the men than heretofore and this had very noticeable results. While Greensburg has a strong line, Connellsville has little to fear in that direction, as the Coker defense is by no means weak. No team this year has been able to plunge Connellsville line with any consistent success and Greensburg will be blanked here. The Cokers also proved themselves to be good defenders of the line and work in last week's game when they held down many Latrobe forwards and intercepted several.

No one is attempting to fathom the backfield, which will start for Connellsville against the Brown and White. Coach Rupp doesn't intend to say until the last minute and then the best man will get the place.

Over fifty years ago a young physician, practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

THE GREAT SHADOW

By A. CONAN DOYLE

Author of The Adventures of Sherlock Holmes

Copyright by A. Conan Doyle.

"All right, Jim," I answered.

"I fear I'm here on a wild-goose chase," said he gloomily, "but it's not over yet. By God, I'll have him or he'll have me!" He had brooded so much on his wrong, had poor Jim, that I really believe it had turned his head, for he had a glare in his eyes as he spoke that was hardly human. He was always a man that took even a little thing to heart, and since Edie had left him I am sure that he was no longer his own master.

It was at this time that we saw two single fights which they tell me were common enough in the battles of old, before men were trained in masses. As we lay in the hollow, two horsemen came spurring along the ridge in front of us, riding as hard as hoof could rattle. The first was an English dragoon, his face right down on his horse's mane, with a French cuirassier, an old, gray-headed fellow, thundering behind him on a big, black mare. Our chaps set up a hooting as they came flying on, for it seemed a shame to see an Englishman run like that; but as they swept across our front we saw where the trouble lay. The dragoon had dropped his sword and was unarmed, while the other was pressing him so close that he could not get a weapon. At last, stung maybe by our hooting, he made up his mind to chance it. His eye fell on a lance beside a dead Frenchman, so he swerved his horse to let the other pass, and hopping off cleverly enough, he gripped hold of it. But the other was too tricky for him, and was on him like a shot. The dragoon thrust up with the lance, but the other turned and sliced him through the shoulder-blade. It was all done in an instant, and the Frenchman cantered his horse up the brae, showing his teeth at us over his shoulder like a snarling dog.

That was one to them, but we scored one for us presently. They had pushed forward a skirmish-line whose fire was toward the batteries on our right and left rather than on us, but we sent out two companies of the Ninety-fifth to keep them in check. It was strange to hear the crackling kind of noise that they made, for both sides were using the rifle. An officer stood among the French skirmishers, a tall, lean man with a mantle over his shoulders, and as our fellows came forward he ran out midway between the two parties and stood as a fencer would, with his sword up and his head back. I can see him now, with his lowered eyelids, and the kind of sneer that he had upon his face. On this the subaltern of the Rifles, who was a fine well-grown lad, ran forward and drove full tilt at him with one of the queer, crooked swords that the riflemen carry. They came together like two rams, for each ran at the other, and down they tumbled at the shock, but the Frenchman was below. Our man broke his sword short off, and took the other's blade through his left arm, but he was the stronger man, and he managed to let the life out of his enemy with the jagged stump of his blade. I thought that the French skirmishers would have shot him down, but not a trigger was drawn, and he got back to his company with one sword through his arm and half another in his hand.

CHAPTER XIII.

The End of the Storm.

Of all the things that seem strange in that great battle, now that I look back upon it, there was nothing that was queerer than the way in which it acted on my comrades. For some took it as though it had been their daily meat, without question or change, and others pattered out prayers from the first gun-fire to the last, and others again cursed and swore in a way that was creepy to listen to. There was one, my own left-hand mate, Mike Threadingham, who kept telling about his maiden aunt, Sarah, and how she had left the money which had been promised to him to a home for the children of drowned sailors. Again and again he told me this story, and yet, when the battle was over, he took his oath that he had never opened his lips all day. As to me, I cannot say whether I spoke or not, but I know that my mind and my memory were clearer than I can ever remember them, and I was thinking all the time about the old folks at home, and about cousin Edie with her saucy, dancing eyes, and De Lissac with his cat's whiskers, and all the doings at West Inch which had ended by bringing us here on the plains of Belgium as a cockshot for two hundred and fifty cannon.

During all this time the roaring of those guns had been something dreadful to listen to, but now they suddenly died away, though it was like the lull in a thunder-storm when one feels that a worse crush is coming hard at the fringe of it. There was still a mighty noise on the distant wing, where the Prussians were pushing their way onward, but that was two miles away. The other batteries, both French and English, were silent, and the smoke cleared so that the armies could see a little of each other. It was a dreary sight along our ridge, for there seemed to be just a few scattered knots of red, and the lines of green where the German legion stood, while the masses of the French appeared to be as thick as ever, though, of course, we knew that they must have lost many thousands in these attacks. We heard a great cheering and shouting from among them, and then suddenly all their batteries opened together with a roar which made the din of the earlier part seem nothing in comparison. It might well be twice as loud, for every battery was twice as near, being moved right up to point-blank range, with huge masses of horse between and behind them to guard them from attack.

When that devil's roar burst upon our ears there was not a man down to the drummer-boys who did not understand what it meant. It was Napoleon's last great effort to crush us. There were but two more hours of light, and if we could hold out own for these, all would be well. Starved and weary and spent, we prayed that we might have strength to load and grab and fire while a man of us stood upon his feet.

His cannon could do us no great harm now, for we were on our faces, and in an instant we could turn into a huddle of bayonets if his horse came down again. But behind the thunder of the guns there arose a sharper, shriller noise, whirring and rattling, the wildest, jauntiest, most stirring kind of sound.

And as he spoke we saw a strange thing. A Frenchman, dressed as an officer of Hussars, came galloping toward us on a little bay horse. He was screeching "Vive le Roi! Vive le Roi!" at the pitch of his lungs, which was as much as to say that he was a deserter, since we were for the king and they for the emperor. As he passed us he roared out in English: "The Guard is coming! The Guard is coming!" and so vanished away to the rear like a leaf blown before a storm. At the same instant up there rode an aide-de-camp with the reddest face that ever I saw upon mortal man.

"You must stop 'em, or we are done," he cried to General Adams, so that all our company could hear him.

"How is it going?" asked the general.

"Two weak squadrons left out of six regiments of horrles," said he, and began to laugh like a man whose nerves are overstrung.

"Perhaps you would care to join in our advance. Pray consider yourself quite one of us," said the general, bowing and smiling as if he were asking him to a dish of tea.

"I shall have much pleasure," said the other, taking off his hat, and a moment afterward our three regiments closed up and the brigade advanced in four lines over the hollow where we had lain in square, and out beyond the point whence we had seen the French army.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"WHAT WOMEN WANT"—Starring Louise Huff, the charming actress, is being presented today and will also be the attraction tomorrow. It is described as an emotional study of a woman's love. There are several unique dramatic twists and turns in the story which keep the audience guessing until nearly the end. The story is laid in America and was directed by Georges Archaimbaud, the distinguished French director, who has achieved many successes both in America and his native country.

A selected comedy is also being shown.

THE SOISSON.

"IN SEARCH OF A SINNER"—Starring Constance Talmadge, the beautiful screen star, in a delightful role, is today's feature attraction and will also be presented tomorrow. Georgiana's husband was a perfectly good man—too good, in fact, to live. After his death, Georgiana, released from three years of boredom, visited her brother-in-law in New York, determined to look up a sinner, and if he were wicked enough to marry him. She flirts with a man in Central park. He makes love to her. Thinking he is "bad" she leads him on, not knowing that he is a very moral man and a friend of Jeffry, her brother-in-law. Jeff and his wife are called away on account of his mother's illness. Garrison, her park acquaintance, visits the apartment and is told by Georgiana that she is Jeff's wife. Unwilling to betray his best friend Garrison hurriedly quits the apartment, but later, lured by Georgiana's wiles, he makes more violent love, when his conscience stirs him. Again he quits the apartment announcing his intention of "going to hell." Garrison grabs the wild-eyed woman on Broadway and Jeffry sneaks out of measles quarantine to his home is getting along. His ideals shattered, Garrison is found by Georgiana and Jeffry with his wild woman and empty liquor bottles. Then things reach a climax.

Gland Help Without Monkeys!

Other Animal Glands Now Used in Tablet Form Combined With Iron.

Many persons, attracted by the reports of monkey and goat gland treatment, are asking why the glands have such an important bearing upon health.

In explanation, it is said that the glands secrete tiny chemical elements called "hormones" and that the health and activities of blood and body cells are controlled in great measure by these "hormones." If the glands are run-down through sickness, physical or mental overwork or excesses of any kind "hormone-hunger" is said to set in and ill health follows, attended often by such symptoms as nervous disorders, anaemia and a general run-down condition.

In order that "hormones" may be supplied to the blood they are secured from the glands of animals, but, now, instead of monkey and goat glands, the extracts are often taken from the glands of sheep and cattle and instead of transplanting them by means of an operation they are now prepared in form of a small tablet. One such preparation known as Glandex Compound contains other health building ingredients such as iron and is now being used by thousands as a constitutional tonic.

The Glandex Company, Inc., of 244 West 23th street, New York, under whose formula Glandex Compound is prepared, authorize any druggist to return the purchase price, if after two weeks use results are not entirely satisfactory.

Note: $1,000 will be paid by the Glandex Company, Inc., to anyone proving that Glandex Compound does not contain genuine desiccated gland substance (popularly known as Gland Extracts) from sheep and cattle.—Adv.

EAT and Get Thin

This is turning an old saying face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat; opposed to physical exertion; fond of the table and its good things; and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, go to your druggist (or write to the Marmola Co., 95 Garfield Building, Detroit, Mich.) and give him, (or send them) one dollar, thus satisfying your ambition for a trim, slim figure, by receiving a good size box of Marmola Prescription Tablets (compounded in accordance with the famous Marmola Prescription); take one of these pleasant candy tablets after each meal and at bedtime, and you will lose your fat at the rate of two, three or four pounds a week.

Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless, but really beneficial in the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, nestly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.
